Dear Members and Friends

The close of our fiscal year, May 31, 2013, coincided with the concluding celebrations of the Junior League of Chicago (JLC) Centennial. Over a period of two years we embarked on an array of carefully chosen activities to support our Centennial key objectives: celebrate our impact in the community; increase the visibility of the JLC; engage our members and former members; and secure our financial future. Our Centennial Gala, held in June 2012, advanced each of these objectives in exceptional ways. Net revenue from the event, which exceeded $250,000, launched our Centennial Campaign. An additional $100,000 contributed by members and friends to the 2012-2013 Annual Fund further advanced our mission.

We also organized nearly 30 Centennial Days of Service projects with community partner agencies past, present and future. In February 2013, we announced that our capstone Centennial community project would be to work with the nonprofit organization KaBOOM! to build a playground in Chicago. The project – and the selection of the Chicago Preschool Academy in Chicago's Chatham neighborhood as our community partner for this venture – truly exemplifies our focus on healthy lifestyles and our longstanding advocacy commitment to early childhood development. All of our community projects inspire the imagination, and remind us why it is that we dedicate ourselves to the JLC.

Among the many dedicated members of the JLC are the leaders who served on our 2012-2013 Board of Directors and Management Committee. The generous contribution of time and expertise from these women proved invaluable, as did the exemplary leadership of Executive Vice President Jennifer King. I am deeply grateful to all of the leaders, members and friends who make up the Junior League of Chicago. Because of your passion and commitment, we are able to live our mission every day. Together, in our second century of service, we will continue to distinguish ourselves as we train leaders, serve community and change lives.

All the best,

Letter from the Treasurer

The 2012 – 2013 year was inspirational for the Junior League of Chicago, as we reinforced the core values of our mission that have sustained us for over 100 years. Our members continued to impact the community by changing the lives of those they support. In total, the JLC deployed over $250,000 to its community projects, which has allowed us to continue improving and expanding our programming. This included the Centennial Days of Service events, which culminated with the KaBOOM! Playground Build through a partnership with the Chicago Preschool Academy. This playground will serve the community for years to come, as JLC members prepare for future events at the site to mentor, educate and inspire Chicago's youth. It remains important to train our leaders so they can be prepared with the tools to serve others in the community, and the JLC allocated over $115,000 last year to education and training opportunities. As we closed the 2012 - 2013 fiscal year, the JLC remained strong financially, holding $2.05 million in assets. Thank you for your continued support of our organization. You have allowed us to train our leaders, which has helped to change the lives of all whom they encounter through their efforts in the community.

—Ruth Uress, 2012 - 2013 Treasurer

How has the Junior League helped you to serve your community?

As a member of the Project CON:CERN committee, I feel empowered by the commitment the committee has made in the spirit of "serving community." The Junior League of Chicago has provided me a platform where I can make a positive difference in the local community by collaborating with my fellow Junior League members. Project CON:CERN provides the opportunity to work closely with non-profit organizations in the local community that have identified a need for consulting services and expertise. Providing women the opportunity to collaborate and use the skills gained from their careers to directly impact organizations in the community in a positive way truly showcases Junior League's commitment to serving the community.

How does the Junior League change lives?

Having been a member of the Junior League for nearly three years, I've seen firsthand how the Junior League not only changes the lives of the people within the communities it serves, but also the lives of its members. Last year I organized an event which had various active members talk about how to "get the most of the league" to new associates. Listening to these members passionately discuss how much the Junior League has enriched their lives through new friendships, leadership skills gained through placements, and the overall sense of community the league has provided them made me realize what a powerful organization the Junior League is.

How do you contribute towards the Junior League's Mission of training leaders?

In my past five years of being a member of the JLCU committee, I've grown our premier leadership training event, the Core Curriculum Conference, which is held in both the fall and spring terms. It's exciting to see headquarters filled with women on a Saturday morning taking advantage of sessions like Goal Setting, Volunteering in Diverse Communities, Development and Leadership. The Core Curriculum Conference has had an overwhelmingly positive response, and we plan to continue to develop a robust offering to equip our members with the tools they need to be better leaders and make a bigger impact in our community.

How does the Junior League impact the community through effective leadership?
As a member of the JLC's Advocacy Council, I've seen the power of effective leadership firsthand. The goal of our committee is to advocate for policy changes to support the Junior Leagues' signature issues: healthy lifestyles and early childhood education. To achieve these goals, we must train members on how to effectively express their opinions to policymakers and teach them how to build and nurture relationships with elected officials and community organizations, all characteristics of effective leaders. The Junior League of Chicago is a highly respected organization, and when our members speak, our representatives listen.

What event were you involved with where you saw the impact of the Junior League changing lives?

Last year I volunteered for the Bank of America Chicago Marathon through the Junior League. Watching 40,000 participants running was incredibly motivating as a volunteer and as someone who tries to live a healthy lifestyle. I was thrilled to see the enthusiasm and hard work the Aid Station crew put in that day, it was non-stop physical effort. On several occasions JLC volunteers were thanked by Bank of America Marathon employees for being proactive in their work at the station, such as taking the initiative to start cleaning without being told. To me, that small gesture showed how Junior League volunteers take pride in serving their community, and as a result, change lives.

How has the Junior League helped you serve your community?

It is a privilege to be part of the MadHatter legacy in the Junior League, our longest running community project. As one of the committee leaders, it has been an exciting challenge to continually evolve the project to meet the needs of our community partners and Junior League volunteers while providing a fun and creative way to engage children in reading. My passion for early childhood literacy is driven by the fact that if we are able to connect with at least one child in every performance, we could really change the course of their life and future success by helping them develop a love for reading.
